Employing a Selling Agent

When employing an agent to market and sell your home, ensure you are clear about what you expect in an agent. Prior to meeting any agent, take 15 minutes to write down several points on what is important to you in a real estate agent.

Real estate agents often spruik their clearance rates or their profile in the marketplace. These can only be considered secondary benefits for a home seller, at best.

The digital footprint can haunt the sale well into the future. The true determinant of a good agent is their ability to deliver a premium price in a risk-free and stress-free manner. You will only sell your property once. Therefore, it is crucial that you get the right price when you go to the market. When agents want your business, they will often take you down different paths selling secondary benefits and products. You are likely to be pitched items such as premium internet advertising, off-market trades, illuminated signboards and bigger brochures. Relate any offering and suggestion back to your primary goal – a sale at the highest price in a risk-free and stress-free manner.

Agents that constantly focus on getting the property 'sold' as opposed to achieving you the 'best possible price' are signalling their intent. The best sales people are not high pressure 'closers' they are calm, professional and supportive in providing you with the right information. They are assertive but they are not aggressive. Before employing any agent to sell your property, meet with them several times to gain a sense of their style.

Your selected agent is going to be your guide throughout the campaign. Therefore, it is crucial that there is mutual respect and trust.

An agent that can attain a sale in a booming market is a commodity. An agent that can deliver a premium sale price in a risk-free and stress-free manner is a prized asset during a campaign.
